

Dashboard

In canvas, this button pulls up the "dashboard". Here you will find a list of their courses. You will also see a "to do" list that shows missing assignments or assignments that are coming up.

Also on this page, you will see "feedback" that lists things that were recently graded or notes teachers have posted on assignments.

Click on any course to be taken into that course to see assignments and modules.

Once you click on a course, it will open up to a home page. Each course has a homepage that looks something like this. On the home page, you will see "teacher contact information" (email address, online hours, google meet times and code). The "course expectations" will list an outline of what the students should expect from the course, some rules, and possible some resources.

Each evening, you can ask to see your students "calendar". By clicking on the calendar, you will see what all that student should have submitted that day. If the student submitted the assignment successfully, the item will have a line through it. If you see items on your student's calendar that do not have a line through them, click on the assignment and ask your student to complete it or submit their work.

The screenshot shows the 'Compose Message' window in Canvas. At the top, there are dropdown menus for 'All Courses' and 'Inbox'. The main form includes a 'Course' dropdown menu with 'Select course' as the placeholder, a 'Subject' text field with 'No subject', and a checkbox for 'Send an individual message to each recipient'. At the bottom, there are 'Cancel' and 'Send' buttons. A vertical sidebar on the left contains several icons, including a question mark. A black text box is overlaid on the message body area, and three yellow arrows point to the 'Course' dropdown, the sidebar, and the 'Send' button.

Send an individual message to each recipient

If your student is having trouble with one of their courses, they can message their teacher in canvas to let them know they need help, that something isn't working right, and/or to ask a question.

Teachers also use messaging to communicate with students. Please check your student's messages each evening to make sure they are reading them.
